Clothing for Kids in Tororo, Uganda

an RMF project by Judah Yarberry
In May 2008, Judah traveled to Tororo, Uganda, where he made some new friends.
When he returned to Hawaii, Judah told his 5th grade class about the kids in Before Judah’s next trip, the class collected clothing that Judah could take.
In late November, Judah returns to Tororo
As we walk along, we start to recognize familiar faces.
There are always lots of kids to play with around Mama Kevina School.
and lots of animals to observe
The Sisters from Mama Kevina school invited the children over to take tea.

Handwashing
About 50 kids come by
They come from the poor neighborhoods around the school.
As Judah says, his African friends “might only have one pair of clothes, and those may have rips in them.”
Afternoon tea is a treat for these children
Some of the high school kids help serve
Sister Clare tells the children how Judah's classmates collected clothing for them.
“Raise your hands if you’ve heard of Hawaii”
Sister Clare distributes the clothes
... & the children try them on...
...to see how they fit...
...to be fashion models for a moment...
... And to say "thanks!"
